Execs Retain Office; Editor Plan Defeated

By HOLLY SMITH
Managing Editor

Discussion abounded in Wednesday's marathon Executive Council meeting which lasted almost three hours.

Much of the time was used to discuss the proposal to have students elect the editor of THE DAILY UNIVERSE. Omar Kader, a senior in international relations, brought the idea before the council.

Kader's main point of argument was that students should have the right to elect the editor of their paper. His opposition claimed that this would make the editorship too much of a political position and that it raises the possibility of an incompetent person becoming editor.

The motion for popular election of editor was defeated. Also defeated was a second proposal to add two more students to the Publications Board, which now chooses the editor.

The Student Relations Office received a shot in the arm as it was voted by the officers not to do away with this office after all. It was decided that Student Relations should be redefined as to what its duties exactly are, in relation to the other offices.

President Ken Karchner said, however, that he still thinks the office is "dead wood." Karchner now plans to submit a petition to the student body to do away with the Student Relations position.

The question of whether student officers should receive pay or "stipends" has been put off indefinitely, if what happened at the meeting is any indication.

Reed Halladay, Social V.P., suggested that the future of stipends should be put before the student body for a vote. He felt that this would settle the matter once and for all.

However, when Karchner, who once proposed doing away with stipends, was asked his opinion, he stated that his attitude had changed somewhat.

He said that he now felt that the students would have to put up with those officers who really did not do enough to earn the money or really did need the money to run in order to provide for those who do work and do need the money.

No action was taken, and the matter was dropped.

Passed at the meeting were motions that no ASBYU funds shall be expended to influence the outcome of any election, initiative or referendum without approval of the council. This was in response to Karchner's successful drive to eliminate class government. Paid aids were used to eliminate class government.

Also passed was the motion that activities for each office must be submitted to the council for approval before enactment. This was to prevent overlap of activities between offices.

4-17 Vote

Senate Votes To Lower Voting Age

WASHINGTON (AP) Senate voted Thursday to lower the voting age to 18 in all federal, state and local elections.

The vote was 64-17. The measure was taken on a motion by Democratic Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana to a bill to extend the Voting Rights Act for five years.

The effect, if the House approves it and the courts uphold its constitutionality, will be to raise the franchise to an age of 18 for 10 to 11 million young people between the ages of 18 and 21 in the 1972 election.

Sen. John Stennis (D-Miss.)

James B. Allen (D-Ala.) to make the age lowering effective only after the 1972 presidential election.

Allen said that if it were adopted and later ruled invalid by the Supreme Court, the next presidential election could be thrown into confusion.

He asked the Senate to assume the court ruling came several days after millions of young people aged 18 to 21 had voted in the 1972 election.

Sen. John Stennis (D-Miss.)

backing Allen's proposal to make the effective date Jan. 1, 1973, said the sequence of events Allen outlined could result in the 1972 presidential election being thrown into the House of Representatives.

Similar arguments against the 18-year-old vote amendment of Majority Leader Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) had been made earlier by Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, the GOP leader, and Sen. Roman L. Hruska (R-Neb.), ranking minority member of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Seattle Police Go On Campus To Prevent More Violence

SEATTLE (AP) Seattle police moved onto the University of Washington campus before noon Thursday in anticipation of renewed violent demonstrations.

Fourteen persons suffered possible fractures, cuts and bruises Wednesday as demonstrators swarmed through six buildings at the school.

The police, joined by King County Department of Public Safety deputies and campus security officers, initially took a position in Thomson Hall, site of demonstration activity on other days.

Fourth Day

Wednesday was the fourth day of demonstrations, supporting a Black Student Union demand that the university immediately sever all relations with BYU.

"The university will not tolerate another one of these episodes," said acting University President John Hogness. UW president Charles Odegaard is in Europe on a vacation-business trip.

Newsmen estimated the size of the crowd at 500-700 persons, but a UW spokesman placed it at 200-300.

Nearly 2,000 other students milled around the area where demonstrators had assembled.

A force of 25 riot-equipped Seattle police officers stood by in an area adjacent to the campus, but were not called onto university grounds.

The group dispersed after university officials warned demonstrators they would be violating a court restraining order if they did not break up.

It was the first time such a warning had been made by the university. Earlier demonstrations had been broken up by BSU leaders.

BYU'S SKIING population is invited to the Ski Special at Solitude Ski Resort this Saturday. Three dollars pays for an all-day pass, an all-night pass and a dance in the Solitude Lodge with the "Consumption Function."

STILL MORE MARQUEE

Editor:
STOP! STOP! STOP!

Please stop any further activities in the direction of your current schemes for a special marquee. You have violated, in every sense, all areas of good design in the way the project was constructed.

Sign companies have a reputation for poor design and a crass commercialism and now have negated all of the efforts of responsible people by ignoring good design which is available through trusted people to construct and to organize a superior marquee.

Furthermore, it seems questionable at this point that such a marquee is even necessary or desirable and to deface our campus with this preposterous presentation is unquestionable and unsatisfiable.

Let me recommend that you consider competent design people on or off this campus to assist in the design and construction of this sign before further action is taken.

LAST DAYS?

Editor:

For some students who are on academic probation, unless their grades are maintained at a certain level, the coming midterm grades may certainly portend final days at BYU within the near future.

Within the next two weeks D & E rolls will be distributed to colleges, departments and faculty for marking Students, parents, faculty advisers and personnel workers who assist students will receive the D and E reports within a few days from the midsemester reporting date.

These will indicate to many students that they have been doing unsatisfactory work in the areas requiring such grades. This will enable the student to utilize the remainder of the semester in improving his work in order that he can receive a satisfactory grade by semester's end.

There is still a little time in most departments for students to review and brush up on difficult areas before midterms begin. With a little effort time can still be used.

Kenneth A. Lawtzen
Department of Academic Standards

SUGGESTIONS

Editor:

I am a member of the usually "silent majority." I have great faith in the administrators of this institution and applaud their efforts in establishing BYU as an outstanding, high class university.

However, I feel that I must make my feelings known on the current time of the marquee. We have perhaps the most beautiful campus in the world—why clutter it up with a conspicuous sign without need and no real purpose other than to "impress" visitors to our campus. Not one of the thousands of temples does our campus landscape justice.

Furthermore, do we really need it? We have a daily newspaper which has adequately advertised our upcoming events and is available to anyone with any amount of interest. It is the job of THE DAILY UNIVERSE to let us know what is happening, not a trite, not too used billboard.

The proposed $10,000 could be better used:

(a) to build a new "Congress" to help take the strain off the Y Center;

(b) to have trophies and then commissions as artists to do an original art piece, perhaps for the new sports complex;

(c) to help finance the first Mormon opera, written by one of our professors;

(d) to build a large, illuminated water fountain to be placed appropriately on campus.

Since it is degrading to our campus architecture, unnecessary, and questioned by many, the marquee situation should be reviewed and placed on the bottom of the priority list where it belongs.

PARKING PROBLEMS

Editor:

I was a bit disturbed over the article written by Neil Proctor concerning the student parking. This agreement between the administration and the students was negotiated over a period of four months, and although Neil Cloutier and the petition played a role in bringing this matter before the Traffic and Safety Committee, it was the two hour and 10 minute meeting of the Traffic and Safety Committee, the meeting of the Deans' Council headed by Robert Thomas, and the final approval of President Wilkinson that brought this proposal into being, and not the petition or the work of one student.

May I urge the students to learn which area lots belong to the faculty on a 24-hour basis and park only in the approved lots. May I also remind the student body that this is only a trial program, so use only these new 1,670 lots to the fullest after 5 p.m., but only after 5 p.m. I have asked the ASBYU Traffic Court to strictly enforce this approved proposal. And I have been assured by Security that they will be doing their part to enforce the 3 p.m. proposal. I have been reminded by Captain Hildner that 5 p.m. and not 4:30 or 4:45, and no one is to park in any faculty lot before 5 p.m.

The reason for the March 15 date is two-fold. First, it gives Sam Brewster at the Physical Plant time to change the signs and make the necessary preparations for the opening of the 1,670 spaces, and second, to give the students time to find out which lots will be open to them, and which are closed, and to become familiar with the change.

I and several other students have been working too long and too hard to get this 3 p.m. parking for the student body to see it ruined by a few misinformed students. So please, take time to find out which lots will be open and know the nine that are closed. Please help up, as your student representatives, to serve you, by observing the 3 p.m. rule, and by not parking in a faculty lot before 5 p.m. Thank you for your cooperation in helping us serve you.

Why Do You Read So Slowly?

A noted publisher in Chicago reports there is a simple technique of rapid reading which should enable you to increase your reading speed and yet retain much more. Most people do not realize how much they could increase their pleasure, success and income by reading faster and more accurately.

According to this publisher, many people, regardless of their present reading skill, can use this simple technique to improve their reading ability to a remarkable degree. Whether reading stories, books, technical matter, it becomes possible to read sentences at a glance and entire pages in seconds with this method.

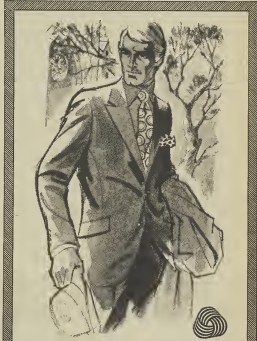

To acquaint the readers of this newspaper with the easy-to-follow rules for developing rapid reading skill, the company has printed full details of its interesting self-training method in a new booklet, "How to Read Faster and Retain More," mailed free. Superstitious Friday Here Again

By LINDA MOREAU
Universe Staff Writer

For those who are not superstitious today is just an ordinary day, maybe even a good day. For the mildly superstitious this may not be the best of days. For the very superstitious today is terrible!

Today is Friday the 13th! This is a little unusual in itself, but most unusual since this is the second Friday the 13 of this new year of 1970 which is only in its third month. For those of you who fared well last month on that fateful day, you have yet to live through today. For those of you who did not fare quite so well—think back to February 13 and the events of that day and night—you have another chance to triumph and prove that the superstitions attached to this day are indeed all in one's mind.

The superstitions connected with both the number 13 and the day Friday are deep rooted. The number 13 has long been abhorrent and fraught with ill luck. In folklore it signified death, misfortune and general destruction. The Romans considered it most unlucky and an evil omen for 13 people to sit down in a room together. Later 13's bad repute was attributed to the fact that 13 was the number present at the Last Supper, Judas being the 13th. In folklore today it is still believed by some that should 13 persons sit at a table together, one of them will die before the year is out.

Friday has long been considered an unnatural day. To the superstitious it is bad luck to start a journey on that day. To make any move will result in consequences. It is believed superstitious that accident is the direct result of willful the matter of beginning a Friday. If you do dare to do something you must finish it, you will never finish it.

In Scottish folklore tradition widely believed Friday was the day on which fairies seemed to revel about ground, raid houses in daylight and investigate dishes being prepared for the Creoles have a superstition about this day that says "laugh on Friday will Sunday."

In Southern U.S. folklore believed that if a person is on the 13th, marries on the 13th and dies on the 13th it is a bad omen for him in the next life.

So, for those of you who are not superstitious today may be a good day. For the superstitious a not so day—for the superstitious to double trouble—beware!

There are also some snapping

The idea for the zoo was formulated last fall semester when build cages for the reptiles, he presented a plan to the Zoology Dept., which would set aside an area for all the reptiles collected by graduate students.

Up until last fall the assemblage of reptiles simply amounted to cages on shelves and desks. The number of reptiles collected from field trips and individual students became so great that some graduate students had to move their desks into another office to accommodate the animals.

A zoo of this type can be very interesting for scout groups, the reptile zoo will be conducted on Friday afternoons. Interested

WAC Wrestling Meet Starts

By R.C. ROBERG
Universe Sports Writer

"Something's Gotta Give," that old melody popular a few decades ago certainly would be the appropriate theme for the Eighth Annual WAC Wrestling Championships beginning today and terminating Saturday at Fort Collins, Colo.

Sitting on top of the world is defending champion Utah, who in last year's competition won the eventual championship in the semifinals by placing six of its grapplers into the finals.

In last year's finals the championship went right down to the wire with the Utes edging out BYU 59-58 for the championship. BYU wrestling coach Fred Davis expects this year's championship to be contested between three teams: Utah, BYU and Colorado State.

The Cougars are led by Ron Kenworthy wrestling in the 142 pound class and Rondo Fehlberg in the 150 pound class. All seasons long these two stellar performers have contributed greatly to the Cougar effort and have come through with key victories in their dual meet competition.

The BYU wrestling team, however, lacks the depth in the upper weight divisions which have plagued them all season long; however, coach Davis has been working hard with the heavyweights in order to get them prime and ready for this year's competition.

BYU, which had won the coveted trophy three straight years before losing to Utah last season, will carry a 6-7-1 dual meet record into the final. However the Cougars almost pulled off a major upset when they narrowly lost to Portland State 17-15 in the final match of the evening. Portland State was ranked number one in the college field and the Cougars proved that on any given night they are capable of winning.

Last year's champion, Utah, had been labeled as the team to beat. This year, however, the Utes have suffered some key injuries to their personnel, and probably will not be at full strength.

Lurking in the shadows but ready to spring an upset if possible is this year's host Colorado State. The Rams have an impressive 7-4-1 record in dual meet competition, with a win over Utah and the Rams put up a gallant effort before bowing to number one ranked Iowa State.

There are no defending champions returning from last year's championship but the strongest choices for individual crowns are Sam Arashita of Utah at 118, Ron Kenworthy of BYU at 142; Charles Shepard of Utah at 158; and Dennis Alf of Wyoming at 177.

Arashita is the overwhelming favorite based on a superb 25-1-1 record in dual meet competition this year. Kenworthy also is a solid choice and has an 18-3 mark this year. Shepard currently has a 25-2-1 showing for his work thus far and was runner-up to the WAC's outstanding wrestler, Gary Rushing of Arizona, in 1969.

The final pre-tournament

favorite Alf, of Wyoming, but 14-1-2 record into the WAC. However, he twice has victorious over Colorado's J World Titleist, Bill Bragg.

Thus this year's champion could well be contested by teams over-all depth and also re-arranging of various grap into different weights attempting to gain an advantage.

Going into this year's competition Utah has been labeled as the team to beat when you're number one everyone seems to get up a more incentive to make a showing.

First round action will Friday afternoon, with semifinals and consolation scheduled for Saturday afternoon and the finals to term Saturday evening.

GLEN TAKAHASHI is one of the many rugged competitors Coach Fred Davis' wrestling team. He and his teammates will be trying for the WAC title in Fort Collins this weekend.

TOURNEY SET FOR VOLLEYBALL

Ten teams have been invited to participate in the second annual BYU volleyball tournament on March 14 in rooms 138 and 144 of the RPE Bldg. BYU has two teams entered in the meet, one called the White team while the other is designated the Blue team.

Other teams accepting invitations are Clapper Craft, Boise "V", the Menchunas (a BYU club team), and a Provo ward team.

Trophies will be awarded to the winners of the tournament scheduled to begin at 9:15 a.m. on Saturday. It will continue all day with the finals set for 7 p.m. Admission is free and the public is invited.

Representing the BYU White and Blue teams will be player-coach Dennis Largey, an All-American from California and Hawaii; Ron Mickle, Bruce Barron, Zeke Perry, Ted Winfield, Jim Lamph, Bobby Kano, Dave North, Dave Earl, Gustin Iuli, and Carl Fonoimonoa.

kick-stand. It will keep the vehicle from freezing to the ground when parked.

Seeing that snowmobiles are so easy to operate; you should have a fool-proof lock on it to minimize the temptations for all those light-fingered individuals who utilize other peoples commodities without their permission, to go on a joy ride. Another important factor is the dealer, should have service facilities for maintenance and repair work you will in time inevitably need.

You may get an offer from a discount house, but what good is it if parts and service are not available when the vehicle starts getting temperamental.

Weber State Netters Clash With Cougars

After an extended tour of the Texas lowlands in which they met several high ranked teams, the BYU tennis team begins its home tennis schedule against Weber State this Friday at 7:30 p.m. on the Cougar tennis courts.

In last year's meetings, BYU won two matches from Weber enroute to winning the conference title and honors in the NCAA final.

Despite the loss of four lettermen from last year's WAC championship team, BYU's coach Wayne Pearce is forecasting another winning season for his talented tennis team. His forecast seems correct so far with a 7-2 season record. The two losses were to second-ranked Trinity

Tourney Finals

The finals in the college-division of the All-Church basketball tournament scheduled for tonight could be an all-BYU affair. The college finals are set for 5:30 p.m., with the Frisling and M-Men finals to follow at 7 and 9 p.m., respectively.

Two BYU wards played in the semi-finals in opposite brackets last night but results were not available at press time.

BYU 70th went against a tough Utah 6th ward crew, while the BYU 79th were matched up with Utah State 3rd in the all-Utah semi-finals.

BYU's other representative, the 48th ward, was edged by Utah 6th Wednesday night, 69-68.

Howard Cops Scoring Honors

It wasn't the winning season on record, but the basketball campaign just completed by BYU's team will definitely go into the books as the Cougars' most memorable.

Actually, it was more than a basketball season; it was a long, drawn out mixture of sport, social tension and demonstration. And under such circumstances it isn't surprising that the Cougars had to settle for an 8-18 overall record.

The best evidence that BYU was off its usual game can be found in the Cougars' record at home. Prior to this year, Coach Stan Watts' teams had lost only five home games over a five-year period. But in the season just concluded, The Cougars ended with a 6-6 split at home.

Playing under more pressure than any team should be expected to handle, the Cougars finished well back in the Western Athletic Conference standings. But they managed to finish ahead of last-place Arizona State.

Individual scoring honors were taken by Doug Howard, the 6'3" senior guard from Salt Lake City who wound up his playing career with an 18.2 scoring average. Howard also finished among the top 10 free throw shooters in collegiate ball, hitting 85 per cent of his attempts from the free throw line. Doug also became the fourth highest scorer in BYU history.

Paul Ruffner, the Y's 6'9" center, finished his senior year with a 17.7 scoring average, plus rebounding honors. Ruffner averaged 10 rebounds per game over the 26-game schedule.

Scott Warner finished the season as the number four scorer with a 10.1 average, and was the team's number two rebounder.

There is other evidence that the Cougars' game was well below the BYU standard. The team's scoring output was the lowest it has been in the past five years and the Cougars excelled opponents in only one department—rebounding.

The Cougars lost four seniors—Howard, Ruffner, Warner and Bob Davis—but will have three starters returning. The three are forwards Phil Tollerup and Steve Kelly, and guard Jim Miller.

Athlete Returns

From the "Y News" of 1921: "Rulon Mapelly, guard on the 1917 championship football team of the U.A.C. has started school at the 'Y' this quarter. Rulon tips the scales at about 225 pounds. According to the coach, he is a good prospect for our 1922 champion team."

Bowlers Host Utah, USU Weber State Tomorrow

BYU hosts its second annual Best Ball Bowling Tournament Saturday from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. on the lanes of the Wilkinson Center Games Center.

Competing in the event besides the host team Cougars, will be Weber State, Utah State and Utah. The first best ball tournament was won by the BYU bowling squad.

KBYU-TV will tape the event for replay over the air the following Saturday.

Director of the Games Center, Shafter Brown, invites all students to attend the meet and witness the exciting action.

In the best ball tournament, a team consists of one woman and one man.

The general rules are that one team member rolls his first ball and if it is not a strike, the other team member rolls his first either one gets a strike, counted for that frame. If strikes, the team decides spare they want to bowl, must try can't bowl for both.

Players always a throwing of the first ball. In the 10th frame, a player will alternate a strike or spare as though frame score.

Y Kittens Are Impressive

As the season comes to a close, BYU freshman coach Courtney Leishman says of his Kittens, "I'm proud of the way these kids represented BYU."

They are a credit to BYU, they played well together, they had fun and they displayed great talent that should continue to strengthen the BYU program.

During the 1969-70 BYU freshmen had record of 12 wins and while making some marks. The Kittens a statistically, cost devastated their opponents.

In the scoring of Kittens hit 48 per cent field while averaging opponents' 81.1 points.

In the rebounding of the Kittens completely the boards in outrebound opponents in 18 games 693, for an average of per game.

Leading a very tight Kitten scoring honors Geoff Brandt. B All-American high school from Sacramento, Ca. 341 points for a 18.8 average, and had a set 29 points against the Eastern Utah.

One point behind B scoring race was Kaleri Sarkalahti. With points, Sarkalahti also scoring average. Ag State, Sarkalahti scored high of 37 points.

Also scoring well for was Kresimir Cosic (Porter) (9.8), Crai (8.4), John Starkins Bailey (6.4) and Dan

Voice For Consumer

Olson Discusses Household Hints

The "voice for the consumer to the management" of Speed Queen appliances, Ann Olson, discussed her role with the Speed Queen Co., gave information about new developments in household equipment, hints on causes and removal of stains and instructions on laundering to a group of faculty and students in the Smith Family Living Center recently.

Mrs. Olson, whose official title is Home Service Director for the Speed Queen Company, Ripon, Wis., said she can tell from consumer mail what the consumers are thinking and can tell the management what changes and improvements need to be made on their equipment.

She illustrated some of the problems consumers write to her about by showing pieces of fabric which were damaged by various stains, yellowing or holes. Many who complain think the washer or dryer is to blame.

"Interestingly enough, some of their problems they bring about on their own heads by not following instructions—the most important of all," she stated.

One cause of a stain is fabric softener, Mrs. Olson demonstrated. This stain won't come out with a cleaning solvent but can be removed easily by rubbing the stained area with a wet bar of soap.

The fabric softener stain is often mistaken for a grease stain and, since it can't be removed by treating it as a grease stain the item of clothing or fabric is discarded.

To whiten yellowed fabrics, Mrs. Olson recommended washing them in "very hot water and doubling the amount of detergent." Chlorine bleach also needs to be used in the washing process to whiten the cloth.

Water with iron in it causes stains which are made worse by using chlorine bleach because the bleach oxidizes the iron. Mrs. Olson said to prepare the water first, using detergent and after the detergent cycle, add chlorine bleach.

When using coin-operated washing machines which usually have soft water, she felt a low-sudsing detergent works best. "You get twice as much washing power for the volume of detergent used," she said.

For protein or grass stains, Mrs. Olson advised soaking the stained items in an enzyme product and then adding bleach to a hot wash.

Pearl Finds Students To Be 'All My Friend'

By LISA B. DONE

"It seems to me they're all my friends, that I've always known them."

So comments Pearl Smith, Wilkinson Center snack bar and cafeteria worker, about the many people she comes in contact with here at BYU.

"It's a part of my life. I guess it's just the way the good Lord made me."

Pearl is a happy, friendly person, ready to say hello to anybody and ask how are you today?—and mean it. She says that she's just happy thinking that pretty soon they'll all come, when getting ready for the snack bar to open in the mornings.

Asked why she enjoys her full day job so much, she responded: "Because I love people. Here you have the opportunity to meet people. I'm not the person to stay alone. I pretend that I'm the mother and that you're all mine."

Originally Pearl came to BYU to go to school. She was asked to work and supervise the Cougarreat, a former snack bar arrangement in the Joseph Smith Bldg. She decided to try it for one week and then decide whether or not to continue work or give it up for classes. That was 11 years ago.

"I'd like to know everyone, so that I can say good morning to everyone with their first names," Pearl insists that if she can't remember someone's name within three days that that person should say their name to her every time they see her. That way in her mind she soon sees their name imprinted on their foreheads and she remembers.

Sometimes Pearl will just exclaim "good morning darling!" if she doesn't know the name.

Asked why, she said: "It's important, so I like them a name." (even if it's dull.) Obviously Pearl has many friends here on campus, special thing about this most students come but they have graduated married, to just say hi to the whole world." Pearl commented, "helping people," constantly exemplified continual help she offers.

She and her "mistress" who will give the student who has called about a problem and parents for the evening their advice and comfort.

"They by their husband's knee as if he father and talk. Then we them into bed, give them night and drive them school with us."

One night a boy was the streets, cold, but despondent. Pearl husband were going over, evening but let the boy home for the night, to and sleep. He left early morning. About five o'clock they received a letter from a boy expressing his gratitude for their unselfish help. On he felt nobody could. But that night he received extra lift to keep on in back in college now.

"It brings happiness to life, bringing happiness," she added. She related incident where a girl did any place to stay wedding three weeks a semester. She called explained the situation at her house for the night. They both worked to her wedding dress.
